BEST BET: Race 11 - #1 Bellavais

Although small in size, Bellavais clearly has a lot of spirit. Unfortunately, she did not get a chance to show that last time out, when she had to wait for room to run, and then had to steady late, causing her momentum to be shut off. Not to mention, there was plenty of rain on the day of her last start, and it was pretty clear that she did not like a turf course with some cut in it. She should get a good ground-saving trip from the inside post today.

LONGSHOT: Race 10 - #3 Brightworthy

Making his second career start for trainer Dane Kobiskie, this colt by Munnings ran a very solid debut race at Tampa on a wet track. Stuck with the outside post that day, he finished fourth and now has some experience under his belt. He has a pretty salty field to contend with today, but at a good price, he might be an interesting one to use underneath second time out for a high percentage barn.
